Caring for a cat with chronic kidney disease
(4th edition, 2015, £12.99)

by Dr. Sarah Caney

A 71 page book aimed at cat owners and veterinary professionals. This book is the perfect resource for an owner whose cat has been diagnosed with chronic kidney disease (CKD). Diagnosis is covered in detail including tips on early diagnosis and new information on SDMA testing. The treatment section has been updated to include updated IRIS advice on phosphate restriction, information on angiotensin receptor blockers, weight monitoring of cats at home, management of concurrent illnesses and anaesthesia of cats with CKD.

Caring for an overweight cat
(1st edition, 2012, £12.99)

by Andrea Harvey and Samantha Taylor

A 79 page book aimed at cat owners and veterinary professionals. This book explains the importance of obesity management and how to prevent and treat weight problems in cats. There are tips for maintaining motivation and achieving successful weight loss. Several inspiring case studies are included to show how treatment can be successful.

Caring for a cat with lower urinary tract disease (3rd edition, 2014, £12.99)

by Dr. Sarah Caney and Professor Danielle Gunn-Moore

This 64 page book is an essential resource for all owners caring for a cat with feline lower urinary tract disease (FLUTD). Diagnosis and management of FLUTD is covered in detail with emphasis on successful long-term treatment of feline idiopathic cystitis, the most common cause of FLUTD. There is plenty of practical advice for owners of affected cats and a case report of successful management.

Caring for a cat with hyperthyroidism
(2nd edition, 2013, £12.99)

by Dr. Sarah Caney

This 88 page book explains what hyperthyroidism is, how it is diagnosed and what the various treatment options are. The book has been updated to include information on newer options such as an iodine-restricted food and the importance of avoiding hypothyroidism (over-treatment). There is practical advice on all aspects of care and several inspiring case reports.

Caring for an elderly cat

by Dr. Sarah Caney and Vicky Halls

Our newest addition to the 'Caring for a cat' series has been written to help those living and working with older cats better understand and care for elderly cats. This 135 page book has information on measures which can be followed to enhance both quality and length of life. Diagnosis and management of common medical and behavioural problems are included as well as tips on general care of the elderly cat.

Caring for a blind cat

by Natasha Mitchell

This 63 page book is the ideal information source and support tool for owners of visually impaired cats. The book is also a valuable resource for owners considering re-homing a blind cat. The emotional aspects of this diagnosis are discussed as well as diagnosis and management of a variety of eye conditions that may lead to blindness. There is practical advice on how to modify the home and garden and several inspirational case reports written by owners of blind cats.

The horse professional guide to colic

by Jennifer Stephen

This 68 page book is aimed at owners and professionals caring for horses. The book explains the many causes of colic in horses and prepares owners for having to deal with this condition. The book sets out practical preventative measures in addition to advice on coping with colic. Medical and surgical treatment of colic are discussed with advice on care of horses after their colic has been treated.

Understanding canine urinary incontinence

by Professor Peter Holt

This 46 page book is aimed at pet owners and veterinary professionals. It explains what causes incontinence, how it is diagnosed and the medical and surgical options for treatment of incontinent dogs. There is practical advice on caring for dogs suffering from incontinence and two case reports.

All books contain: • full glossary of terms used by veterinarians
• relevant case studies • plenty of colour photographs

A valuable source of trusted background information.
